Club Women.

The Chataqua Circle is a new woman's club in Chickasha, and starts off with a good membership, and a good aim. The aim of the Chataqua is to have a club room in the business part of town and there have a free reading room, a very commendable object, and while the main object is to cultivate and encourage literary and scientific research the other object of maintaining a free library will prove a feature that will give lustre and history to this club that will be of great benefit to the public.

The Sorosis is the other club woman's society, and has the prestige of three or four years standing, and whose object and aims are about the same. There is plenty of room for both. The Sorosis has had one aim, outside of its literary career, in creating a park for the city—a breathing spot of green grass, trees, flowers and perhaps a lake, a spot where all could go for a breath of fresh air, and a quiet rest without the expense of going to the woods, something that all cannot afford. The object is worthy and we hope to see the Sorosis take hold of it this year with renewed vigor.

As said before there is plenty of room for both, and plenty of material for both societies, and plenty of work to do, and each can build its monument, not of polished granite, but in a park that will last longer in the mind of the people, and in a free public library that will be a pride to the city, and an honor to the founders and promoters. Build the “Sorosis Park”; build the “Chataqua Library” and write the courage, the industry and the wisdom of Chickasha's women as the founders of each.
